

Engine A: how much of the signal is response length?

Random forest, GroupKFold by prompt, error bars are cross-validation SD. Truncating every response in a prompt group to that group's shortest response drives the length-only baseline to chance while the full feature set stays far above it - the remaining signal is not length.